THOUSANDS SAVED NORMAL STUDENTS

Appointment Committee of Normal Places Students Without Cost.—Save Agency Commissions.

Savings aggregating approximately $19,000 have been made to graduates and former students of the Normal school by the appointment committee during the last summer. Those savings are the result of positions obtained for students without the assistance of outside agencies.

Private teachers' agencies charge a commission of five per cent for locating teachers. Assuming that practically all teachers placed by the Normal school would be forced to rely on the agencies in case the Normal school did not furnish the service, George E. Craig, chairman of the appointment committee, believes that it is reasonable to estimate a 5 per cent saving on the salary of each and every teacher placed by the institution.

Records of the appointment committee show that 62 graduates of the two-year course, with teaching experience, were located during the summer at an average salary of $1300. All expense incident to the location of these graduates was borne by the institution, and the 5 per cent saving amounted to $4,030.

Thirty-one graduates without experience were also placed at an average salary of $1200. The saving for this group was $1,860.

Eighty-one juniors without experience were located at an estimated average salary of $1050. The saving for this group was $4,672.50.

Thirty-four juniors with experience were placed at an estimated average salary of $1200. The saving for this group was $2,040.

In addition to the records on file, Mr. Craig estimates that he has helped to locate at least 100 other teachers who were not attending the Normal school at this time. As all of these persons were teachers of experience, he believes the average salary of the group would not be less than $1350. Figured on the usual commission basis of 5 per cent, the saving made for this group amounted to $6,750.

Football Record

The Normal school football team won the championship of the Spokane County Intercollegiate conference, defeating Spokane college, Whitworth college and Spokane university by large scores. The Normal team lost to the W. S. C. freshmen, the University of Idaho freshmen and the State Normal school at Ellensburg.

Discard Honorable Mention

The faculty has voted to change the "honor" and "honorable mention" system of classifying students at the Normal school at the close of each quarter. On the recommendation of Vice President C. S. Kingston, chairman of a special committee appointed to investigate the "increasing size of honor rolls," the "honorable mention" list has been abolished. Hereafter only the "honor roll" will be compiled and published.

From Farm Homes

Forty per cent of the students enrolled in the Normal school this year come from the homes of farmers, or retired farmers, of the Inland Empire. One hundred and sixty-six students have written on their registration cards that the occupation of their parents is farming, while nearly 20 more have said their parents or guardians are retired farmers. Four hundred and seventy-seven cards of students in regular attendance were checked.

PIPE ORGAN FUND IS MORE THAN $2000

Committee Urges Alumni to Make Pledges to Organ Fund As Christmas Gifts.

Pledges and donations of various sorts have increased the fund for the pipe organ to more than $2,000. The goal set by the committee, to be reached one year from now, is $5,000, or half the purchase price of the organ. President Showalter has promised to raise the other half.

Organizations which use the auditorium to give productions for profit are charged a rental of 25 per cent of their gross receipts, weekly movie shows are being operated in the interest of the organ fund, and surplus moneys of all sorts are being credited to the pipe organ. The graduating class last summer turned over more than $100.

Letters have been prepared by the committee for mailing this month, urging each former student to sign a pledge card as a Christmas gift to the organ. A card is being enclosed in each letter. Several hundred dollars have already been pledged since September, and the committee believes that a generous response will be made to the request contained in the "Christmas letter."

Some of the largest counties of Eastern Washington, notably Spokane and Whitman, have not been canvassed, and this is taken as the only practicable means of reaching former students located there, very many of whom, it is believed, will be willing to make a small investment in the organ fund. Below are given the names of former students who have signed cards at institutes this fall:

Greetings from Alumni President

Our attention is often called to the work and undertakings of the alumni of different schools. We know that in some instances alumni members are building stadiums; others are planning to leave other fitting memorials to their respective schools. These movements are to be encouraged because of the spiritual good embodied in the enterprises. The institution that is the benefactor becomes the central object of thought of its former students. This solidarity of purpose makes a spiritual tie of much greater value to the institution than the material value of the donation. The call has come to the former students of the Cheney normal to get behind the movement to place a pipe organ in the auditorium of the Normal school.

We know the need of a pipe organ in our school. Future generations of students will be inspired by its use. Former students will be bound closer to their school by making the contribution that has been suggested by the committee. On returning to the Normal, each former student who helped to carry out the plan will no doubt feel a degree of pride on seeing and being entertained by a pipe organ such as the committee expects to purchase.

Let us support the campaign quite unanimously, assuring ourselves that it is a profitable investment on the part of the alumni in the interest of our alma mater.

Sincerely yours,

—J. W. Lindley

President Alumni Association.

SEARCH RECORDS FOR EX-STUDENTS

County Educational Directories Being Checked to Locate Members of the Alumni Association.

Efforts have been made during the last several weeks to locate former students of the Normal school by checking the directories compiled by county superintendents. This plan has been only partly successful, for in some instances it has been impossible to get the directories. However, from the check that has already been made it has been shown that a large percentage of public school teachers in the Inland Empire have received training at the Normal school. By counties they are located as follows:

Lincoln, 102; Skagit, 1; Garfield, 19; Klickitat, 9; Benton, 24; Yakima, 6; Columbia, 21; Walla Walla, 38; Ferry, 24; Lewis, 2; Boundry (Idaho), 1; Whitman, 168; Stevens, 94; Douglas, 18; Adams, 44; Asotin, 11; Franklin, 21; Pend Oreille, 32; Chelan, 10; Kittitas, 3; Okanogan, 10; Nez Perce (Idaho), 3; Grant, 15; Whatcom, 1; Thurston, 1; King, 3.

Several former students are attending the Washington State college and the University of Washington this year, and many are teaching in adjoining states, of whom the Normal school has no record. A large number go into Northern Idaho and Western Montana each year to teach, and last year some went to Nevada. Four members of last year's class are teaching in the Seattle schools.

The educational directories of Spokane county and Spokane city have not been checked, but it is believed that three-fourths of the teachers in Spokane county, outside the city, have attended the Normal school. Many of the Spokane teachers are Normal school graduates.

LOAN FUND HELPS TWELVE STUDENTS

Several Students Borrow Small Sums From Students' Loan Fund.—Make Repayments Now.

Loans aggregating $630 have been made from the students' loan fund to 12 Normal school students since the opening of the present school quarter. The average loan has been $50.

Owing to the fact that 101 separate loans were made during the last year, the loan fund was completely exhausted at the opening of school this fall. More than $7,000 was outstanding. Since September 15, however, a few borrowers, now teaching, have made payments on their notes. Sixteen payments, aggregating $703.45, have been made during the last two months, and from this amount the 12 recent loans have been made.

Borrowed money will return to the fund rapidly from now until March 1, says H. N. Stronach, member of the committee in charge of the fund, and will be available for this year's student body and summer school students. It will be the policy of the committee, Mr. Stronach says, to discourage loans greater in amount than $50.

Other Checks Received

Checks from former students who have subscribed to the pipe organ fund have been received since October 1, 1921, as follows:

Fern McCreery, Maud Adams, Dorothy Black, Clara A. Kienholz, Mabel Cathcart, Della Pemble, Melvane Dillingham, Veryl Erich, Julia M. Stradling, H. M. Ridenaur, Anna Lari, Pearl Spragg and Eloise Polson.

Pays $4 to Fund

Miss Flossie Bolkeom of Rocklyn has sent check for $4 to the pipe organ committee.

Alumni Officers

President, J. W. Lindley, Cheney; vice president, L. C. Van Patten, Cheney; pipe organ committee, Josephine FitzGerald, J. DeForest Cline and J. Orin Oliphant. Kemp Holt was elected secretary-treasurer of the association last May, but has since resigned. President Lindley has not yet appointed a successor.

Our Purpose

The purpose of this special number of the Journal is to give former students of the Normal school some idea of the work being carried on by the organ committee. One thousand copies of this edition have been printed for free distribution among former students. When each former student realizes fully what sacrifices are being made to obtain the organ, and what it will mean to the school to have it, it is the belief of the pipe organ committee that there will be a hearty response to the invitation being given to each one to pledge a small amount. A letter of explanation, containing a pledge card, will follow this edition of the Journal. You are urged to give it your thoughtful consideration. Look upon your pledge not as a gift, but as a small investment in the institution which has done a great deal for you. All that you are asked to do now is to sign the pledge card and return it. A statement will be mailed you when your pledge is due. A pledge card signed and returned entitles you to a free subscription to the Journal for the rest of the year. The sooner the card is returned, the sooner the Journal will begin to come. Read this number of the Journal carefully, and you will understand what the student body and the administration are doing to accumulate money for the organ fund.

The Organ Assessment

The action of the faculty in approving the recommendation of the pipe organ committee for the levying of an assessment of 25 per cent on the gross receipts from entertainments given in the Normal auditorium for profit will result in a considerable addition to the fund that has been slowly accumulating for several months. At the same time, it will not impose any burden on the student body, for organizations are requested not to increase charges to offset the organ assessment.

The Normal auditorium is a community asset, and any addition that is made to it will benefit the entire community. In years gone by it has been the policy of the administration to permit the free use of the auditorium for all worthy purposes. Henceforth, until a fund has been accumulated sufficient to pay for a pipe organ, there will be a slight departure from that policy. Those who use the auditorium hereafter will be asked to invest a small amount in the improvement that will enhance the value of the auditorium as a means of pleasure and profit for all time to come. The organ assessment is nothing but a rental on the auditorium. It is a tax against the management of a production, not against the patrons.

Organizations which have been accorded free use of the auditorium must now reckon with an additional overhead charge. This ought to encourage good management and the curtailment of any tendencies toward extravagance. The sliding scale arrangement will not impose obligations which can not be met. If the returns from a production are small, the rent will be small. Moreover, the money thus raised will be invested in a permanent improvement. The addition of a pipe organ will make it possible for organizations hereafter to give better productions and to make greater admission charges. What may be considered a temporary loss now will pay large dividends in the future. The pipe organ has become a necessity.

Communications

Chewelah, Wash., Nov. 7
Committee on Pipe Organ Fund:

You will find enclosed my check for $3.60, the amount I subscribed at the Stevens county institute. I am glad to send you this amount and want to thank you for the copies of the "State Normal School Journal," which I enjoy reading very much.

Very truly yours,

—Mary E. Betz

Colville, Wash., Nov. 3
Pipe Organ Committee:

I am sending a check for $5 to cover my subscription of $3.60 to the Normal pipe organ fund. Please accept the balance as a small but heartily given donation. I am glad indeed to help support this splendid movement for alma mater.

Very sincerely,

—Grace O. Bock

"Swords and Scissors"

"Swords and Scissors," an operetta, will be presented at the Normal school on December 12 by 120 students of the North Central high school, Spokane. Miss Lucile Elliott of the North Central faculty, a graduate of the Normal school, assisted in coaching the cast.

Presented "Clarence"

"Clarence," a four-act comedy by Booth Tarkington, was presented by the Normal Dramatic club December 2. Twenty-five per cent of the receipts will go to the pipe organ fund.

More Money for Organ

The rental on the auditorium for the Dramatic club production, "Clarence," amounted to $52.75, one-fourth of the receipts of the evening.

Jimmie's Letter

Dear Ma—Well ma, it seems that I just cant keep still about the pipe organ we are going to get for the Cheney normal for there is so many who seem to take such things as a matter of course and say they are for it and yet dont do nothing towards getting the money or arousing any enthusiasm or pep or anything like that. The students here in school is attending movies every week to help out the fund and whenever any teacher goes out to institutes to bawl out the teachers who used to be here in school and who cant be got at so easy now they take cards and ask them to sign up pledges, and lots of them has done so already.

If I just had my elementary ma, and I was sure Mr. Craig was willing to recommend me for a teaching job I know that I'd be willing to sign three or four cards like that. If that

Dr. Tiejie dont flunk me because I dont know a few little things like commas and apostrophes—do you think he'd dare do that, ma—I believe I'll be out in the field teaching next year. Then I'll have a chance to show what I can do for the organ fund because there wont be so many around who are jealous of me and trying to keep me down all the time.

Before I come here ma, I thought it wasnt much of a job to be a teacher but now I know that you have got to know a lot. I didnt use to think that anybody had to know about sensations, perceptions and apperceptive basis before they could teach because you know none of my teachers ever mentioned words like that and they all had first or second grade certificates but I guess they had never went to the Cheney normal and I suppose they learned me a lot of things that aint so. If I handnt of had exceptional ability I wouldnt have got through and been able to come to learn about those things and I'm sure glad that I'm having all these opportunities but I wish there was an organ here so I could learn to play it. It wouldnt take me very long I know because I overheard one of the instructors say the other day that I was unique among the students and that he had never saw anybody just like me before. What do you think of your son now, ma?

The 50 cents you had pa send me, ma has went to the organ fund and thats all I want to invest in it now because you know times is hard and I'm investing a whole lot in my education. But you watch me when I get my elementary and get on an earning basis teaching arithmetic and manual training. I'll sign up a pledge card so big that some of the ex-students who has almost forgot about the old Cheney normal will set up and take notice.

Its getting late ma, and we are going to have final exams this week so I'll close.

Your loving son,

—Jimmie

WALLA WALLA LEADS IN ORGAN PLEDGES

Nearly $200 Pledged by Teachers of Walla Walla, Columbia and Garfield Counties Recently.

Pledges and contributions amounting to $285.80 were received for the pipe organ fund during Thanksgiving week. The largest amount came from the Walla Walla institute, attended by the teachers of Walla Walla, Columbia and Garfield counties. Fifty-three new pledges were received at Walla Walla. Miss Kittie Dell Owens of Walla Walla, a member of last year's class, pledged $5.

Thirteen pledges, amounting to $46.80, were made at the joint Franklin-Benton institute at Prosser last week, and Spokane county teachers pledged $32.40. A complete canvass of Spokane county will be made next month.

The Walla Walla institute was attended by Vice President C. S. Kingston, Dean J. E. Buchanan and Dr. W. J. Wilson. The Cheney alumni and former students held a banquet at Hotel Grand on Tuesday evening, November 22, at which time organ pledge cards were signed.

Those present at the meeting in Walla Walla were as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. Kemp Holt, Starbuck; Leland Rogers, Touchet; Dorothy Bulfinch, Walla Walla; Minnie Stensland, Walla Walla; Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Squibb, Walla Walla; George Eby, Whitman college; L. L. Some Women Have Funny Ideas Regarding Marriage

Marriage being an ancient institution which vitally affects lives of men and women, it is not surprising that practically everything connected therewith has some superstitious belief or other associated with it. The majority of people believe that particular incidents, colors, days, flowers, etc., determine absolutely the weal or woe of the parties to a marriage. They avoid supposedly unlucky days for their weddings. They take pains to arrange everything so as to assure conjugal happiness and they worry themselves nearly to death if anything in connection with the ceremony takes an unpropitious turn.

If a bride marks her linen with the initials of her betrothed it is commonly believed that she will never have occasion to use it as his wife. It is regarded as very unlucky if her fiancé sees her wearing any part of her trousseau before the day, or even the hour, set for the wedding ceremony. Only bad luck can be expected, many believe, if the bride makes her own wedding dress or if the making of the dress is begun before the day is named for the ceremony.

Superstitious brides usually avoid velvet as a material for their wedding dresses, believing that it would be certain to bring them bad luck. Satin is favored because it is believed to assure good fortune. If one holds a wedding dress in the hands for five minutes and makes a wish the wish will "come true," many believe.

Brides are happy if the first flower they behold on their wedding day is white and unhappy if it is red; the white flower is supposed to augur happiness and the red unhappiness and care during the married life. If flowers are worn in the bride's hair, uncovered by a veil, she will be sorry she married. To leave her bouquet in the church and then turn back for it is considered equally portentous.

The girl who finds or snatches a flower from a bride's bouquet may expect an early marriage while the one who dons a bridal veil or wreath in a spirit of fun will be an old maid, according to a popular belief. If the bridegroom appears with his tie awry it is a "sign" that he loves another girl and if a raveling is found on his clothes the supposition is that another woman loves him.

Many are convinced that the bride should not bake the wedding cake herself if she desires to avoid bad luck. She can be sure of good luck, they say, if she cuts the first slice of the cake. Any accident to the cake gives warning that the bride will experience sorrow in her early married life. If an unmarried girl carries a piece of wedding cake in her pocket during the honeymoon she will become a bride before the dress is worn out, 'tis said. To eat a piece of the cake that the bride has left on her plate will likewise bring an early marriage. Girls often place wedding cake under their pillows, believing that they will then dream of their future husbands. When the elder of the daughters of a family marries a piece of her bridal cake must be left in the house, else, it is said, none of the other girls will marry.

A wedding ring, a thimble, a coin and a button are sometimes baked in a wedding cake. The understanding is that the person who gets a piece containing the ring will be the first to marry. The one who gets the thimble is doomed to be an old maid. The one who finds the coin may expect wealth while the one to whom the button falls will be a bachelor.

It is considered unwise for either the bride or bridegroom to glance to right or left or to recognize any one in going up the aisle of the church; the one who does so will shortly go elsewhere for love. If a pigeon alights on the church as the bridal pair enter the church it portends good luck.

If the bride forgets and signs her maiden name instead of her new name to the church register bad luck and possibly separation will result, the superstitious say. In some places it is regarded as decidedly ominous if the minister misplaces his glasses when about to "tie the knot"; this is a "sign" that one of the contracting parties will not bear inspection. To have a minister refuse for any reason to perform the marriage ceremony is very unlucky. He always must see the bride before he ties the knot.

Being married in a ruined church, some believe, will be certain to bring good luck. Good luck may be further assured if the couple, immediately after the ceremony, run out of the church hand in hand. In some countries it is supposed that if the bride is the first to arise from the altar she will be the first ever after to get up in the morning while if the bridegroom arises first that "honor" will fall to his lot.

The French believe that it will bring bad luck for a person older than the bride to precede her in entering the church. The Spanish have an old custom of tying a silk sash fringed with gold about the necks of the bridal pair as they kneel before the altar. This, it is believed, will bring them good luck. In Russia, the bride and bridegroom run rapidly down the aisle after entering the church, the understanding being that the one who first reaches the altar will be "boss" of the household.—Pathfinder.
